Calling all chocaholics.....Western Sydney Parklands will be hosting an Easter Egg Hunt on Sunday 12 April.

There will be three locations within the Parklands where the Hunt will be happening:

The Dairy Picnic Area on cnr Cowpasture Road and The Horsley Drive, Abbotsbury

The Easter Egg Hunt will start at 8 am when the gates to each of these picnic areas are opened.

Why not make a day of it and have a family picnic in one of these beautiful locations, all of which feature gas barbeques, picnic shelters, toilets and parking. Or you can go for a leisurely stroll on the 27 kms of walking track which continue through the entire length of the Parklands.

You can even take your dog for a walk on a leash and enjoy some great views across to the city in the east and the Blue Mountains in the west. The Parklands include high quality bushland and nature reserves which are being protected and enhanced. Best of all – it's free of charge!

So get the family together, search for some eggs and then relax in the tranquil beauty of one of the world's largest urban parklands.
