Media Release

30 April 2009

Free Choccies for Mums at the Parklands

Western Sydney Parklands will be giving out boxes of delicious Lindt chocolates to Mums to celebrate Mothers Day on Sunday 10 May.

There will be three locations within the Parklands where Rangers will be handing out the chocolates to visiting Mums at around 10 am:

Plough & Harrow Park on Elizabeth Drive, Abbotsbury

The Dairy Picnic Area on cnr Cowpasture Road and Restwell Road, Abbotsbury

Pimelea Picnic Area on cnr Cowpasture Road and The Horsley Drive, Abbotsbury

So make a day of it and have a Mothers Day family picnic in one of these beautiful locations, all of which feature gas barbeques, picnic shelters, toilets and parking. Or you can go for a leisurely stroll or ride your bike on the 27 kms of walking and cycling track which continues through the entire length of the Parklands.

You can even take your dog for a walk on a leash and enjoy some great views across to the city in the east and the Blue Mountains in the west. The Parklands include high quality bushland and nature reserves which are being protected and enhanced. Best of all – it's free of charge!

So get the family together, give Mum the day off and then relax in the tranquil beauty of one of the world's largest urban parklands.
